

Quarterly Newsletter

Society for Research on Biological Rhythms

Click here to READ

Erik Herzog, Ph.D.

Save the Date for SRBR 2020!

Mark your calendars for the next SRBR meeting, May 30 - June 3, 2020. We are excited to announce that SRBR will be returning to the Omni Amelia Island Plantation Resort in Amelia Island, Florida. Click here for more information...

Research Spotlight

This issue of the SRBR Newsletter places the spotlight on Huei-Bin Wang, a graduate student working with Chris Colwell at UCLA. Huei-Bin received an Excellence Award for the work he presented at SRBR 2018. Read full interview...

Public Outreach Committee

For the very first time, SRBR will have an SRBR Public Outreach Fellow to help disseminate the broader implications of our research and general chronobiological knowledge to the public. We are seeking a post-doctoral fellow with a passion for public outreach. We want to spread the gospel of circadian rhythms around the world! If you know anyone who fits this description, please encourage them to apply to this fellowship. Their efforts will be financially compensated. Click here for more information about application deadlines and procedures.

Introducing the Education Committee

SRBR has a new committee that will focus on education. Their mission is to ensure that every year a Chronobiology School is offered for SRBR members. They will also build a collection of resources for use in teaching, and will post these on our website with our Chronohistory resources. The Education Committee members are: Drs. Sato Honma, Horacio de la Iglesia, Martha Merrow, John Ewer, Iliia Karatsoreos, and Mary Harrington (chair).

2018 SRBR Wrap-up

The 2018 SRBR meeting was held from May 12 to 16, 2018 at the Omni Amelia Island Plantation Resort on Amelia Island, Florida. This year, the meeting welcomed a record number of 741 attendees from 34 different countries. We hope everyone enjoyed SRBR 2018, and we look forward to meeting up again in SRBR 2020! Read more...

NIH News

CLICK HERE to view the National Heart, Lung, and Blood Institute (NHLBI) sleep recommendations. The SRBR Public Outreach Committee is working hard to establish similar recommendations on topics such as when to eat, when to start high school, and light at night. These recommendations will be shared with government officials to encourage best practices and research funding worldwide.

Current Career Opportunities

Postdoctoral Position, Cincinnati Children's Hospital
Postdoctoral Positions, Rutgers University
Postdoctoral Position, Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute
Postdoctoral Scholarship, University of Umea, Sweden
Postdoctoral Position, Thomas Jefferson University, Pennsylvania
Postdoctoral Position, Geisel School of Medicine, New Hampshire
Marie Cure Ph.D. Positions, Multiple Locations
Graduate Student and Technician Positions, Taiwan

Click here for additional postings...

If you would like to add a job posting, please send the following information to info@srbr.org:
Job title, location, brief description of the open position, application deadline and contact information for application submission.

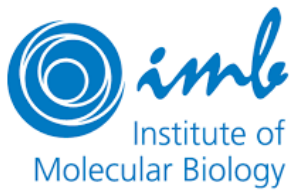

Opportunity to Publish

The Neurobiology of Sleep & Circadian Rhythms journal is accepting submissions for a special issue. The journal invites manuscripts that focus on opioid induced disruptions of cardio-pulmonary control, cognition, affect, or metabolism that are expressed in relation to sleep and circadian physiology. Read more...

Meetings of Interest

The Institute of Molecular Biology will be hosting its 2018 Workshop this November 15-16, 2018 in Mainz, Germany. This workshop will bring together leading scientists, who have made seminal contributions to the understanding of the molecular mechanisms underlying circadian timing and pioneered the introduction of new technologies to the field of circadian

You are encouraged to attend the Advances in Sleep and Circadian Science Meeting in Clearwater, Florida this February 1-4, 2019. The meeting is a collaboration between the Sleep Research Society and the Society for Research on Biological Rhythms. Call for Abstracts is now open for poster presentations at the ASCS 2019 meeting. The deadline for submissions is October 29th, 2018. Read more...

Society for Research on Biological Rhythms Executive Committee

Erik Herzog, President

Amita Sehgal, President-Elect

Stacey Harmer, Treasurer

Fernanda Ceriani, Secretary

